MONTHLY COMMENTARY

The outbreak of war in Iran and the resulting oil price shock triggered erratic volatility in the global bond markets within a very short space of time. This inflationary supply shock naturally led to rising yields, particularly for short- and medium-term maturities. This initial market reaction was exacerbated over the course of the month by the noticeably more restrictive rhetoric from central banks, as well as by forced position closures among hedge funds following the abrupt rise of volatility in the interest-rate market (liquidation of so-called carry trades, i.e. interest-rate differential trades on the foreign exchange market). At the same time, the pronounced risk-off sentiment led to higher risk premiums and thus disproportionately large price declines in spread products. Only inflation-linked bonds were able to act as a "safe haven" in this environment, decoupling from the broader market with positive performance. These highly adverse geopolitical developments also affected the Fund, which had to relinquish the strong gains achieved in January and February. Despite the seemingly elevated duration, our significant allocation to inflation-linked bonds, as well as options on interest rate futures, acted as a buffer, as the latter quickly lost their entire duration contribution in the context of rising interest rates. Within the portfolio, we took partial profits from Linkers. Furthermore, we have rebuilt duration via futures in a more 'directional' manner and established a 'steepening bias' through the disproportionate build-up of duration at the short end of the yield curve, thereby correcting the underweighting of this maturity segment prior to the recent crisis. Moreover, we wrote put options on the Bund future, thereby benefiting from the increased volatility. On the spread side, we participated in attractively priced new issues of high-quality corporate bonds. The current (forward-looking) yield at fund level has thus increased noticeably, while the duration has become more directional but also shorter.

Flossbach von Storch - Bond High Conviction - ET

OPPORTUNITIES

- + Participate in global bond market growth.
- + Income can be generated from regular interest payments.
- + Active interest rate, currency and risk management (e.g. from the use of derivatives).
- + Increase in potential returns through the use of investment-grade bonds, contingent convertible bonds ('CoCo bonds') and bonds with no maturity date ('Perpetuals').

RISKS

- Country, credit and issuer liquidity risk. Also potential exchange rate risks. If securities are illiquid (i.e. thinly traded), there is a risk that it may either not be possible to sell the assets at all or only by accepting a significant discount on the sale price. ESG criteria can restrict the selection of target investments in terms of category and number, sometimes considerably.
- Investing in bonds may entail price risks, especially in case of rising interest rates on the capital markets.
- Where used, derivatives can have a greater negative impact on the fund value than would be the case if the assets were acquired directly. The value of the fund may also be negatively impacted to a greater extent by the use of investment-grade bonds. This can affect the fund's risk profile and volatility (tendency for the price to fluctuate).
- The limited use of contingent convertible bonds ('CoCo bonds') and bonds with no maturity date ('Perpetuals') entails specific additional risks. 'CoCo bonds' are typically debt instruments that can be converted into the issuer's equity or redeemed in whole or in part if a predefined trigger event occurs. 'CoCo bonds' increase the complexity of the fund and may present a higher liquidity and market risk. 'Perpetuals' have no fixed maturity and may increase the risk of repayment of the bond.

Please read the Prospectus and particularly the RISK WARNINGS section and the specific annex of the subfund to understand the risks and benefits of this product.

INVESTOR PROFILE

GROWTH-ORIENTED:

The fund is appropriate for growth-oriented investors. Due to the composition of the net sub-fund assets, there is a high degree of risk but also a high degree of profit potential. The risks may consist in particular of currency risk, credit risk and price risk, as well as market interest rate risks.

INVESTMENT HORIZON:

Medium- to long-term: ≥ 4 years

RISK INDICATOR

The risk indicator assumes you keep the product for 4 years. The actual risk can vary significantly if you cash in at an early stage and you may get back less. The summary risk indicator is a guide to the level of risk of this product compared to other products. It shows how likely it is that the product will lose money because of movements in the markets or because we are not able to pay you. We have classified this product as 3 out of 7, which is a medium-low risk class. This rates the potential losses from future performance at a medium-low level, and poor market conditions are unlikely to impact our capacity to pay you. Unusual market conditions could arise, for example, due to currency, creditworthiness, price, counterparty, liquidity and interest rate risks, as detailed in the sales prospectus.
