

Flossbach von Storch - Foundation Defensive - R

INVESTMENT STRATEGY

The Flossbach von Storch - Foundation Defensive Sub-Fund offers professional asset management to foundations and other responsible investors. The defensive multi-asset strategy is designed to generate attractive returns while preserving the substance of the assets over the medium term. The fund management invests globally in equities (maximum 35 per cent), bonds, convertible bonds, currencies, gold (indirectly) and investment funds according to the principle of risk diversification. Derivatives may be used to hedge or optimise returns. The investment strategy includes in-house valuation models, ESG integration, engagement, and voting. In addition, exclusion criteria are taken into account that are based on a broad consensus of values. For example, the fund management refrains from investing in companies that are associated with the production and distribution of controversial weapons, or that generate significant revenues from military weapons, thermal coal, tobacco, alcohol and gambling. Also excluded are companies that seriously violate the principles of the UN Global Compact initiative these include human rights, labour standards, environmental protection, and anti-corruption. When selecting government bonds, no issuers are considered that are classified as "not free" by Freedom House. The Sub-Fund is actively managed and not benchmarked against an index. For detailed information on the objectives and investment policy, please refer to the most recent sales prospectus and the Key Information Document (PRIIP-KID).

MONTHLY COMMENTARY

In February, the European equity market (measured by the STOXX Europe 600: +3.4 %, including dividends, calculated in euros) outperformed its counterpart in the USA (S&P 500: -1.3 %, including dividends, calculated in US dollars). This trend has been observed for some time and is probably also due to the ambitious valuations of many US stocks. Ten-year US Treasuries yielded a good 30 basis points lower over the course of the month, partly because a further decline in US consumer confidence raised doubts about the robustness of the US economy. By contrast, yields on 10-year German Bunds fell only slightly. Gold rose in price by 2.1% (calculated in US dollars). Demand from professional investors is picking up again, as can be seen from the inflows into gold ETCs, for example. However, the geopolitical situation is likely to (continue to) be decisive for the gold price. In this environment, the Fund price recorded an increase of 0.6 %. The positive performance of bonds and gold in particular made a significant contribution to performance. Regarding equities, we completely divested ourselves of Starbucks, having already reduced the position in previous months. We built up new positions in two German car manufacturers Mercedes and BMW. In our view, the management of both companies has the opportunity to increase the attractiveness of the product range and at the same time reduce the cost base through targeted measures. This could strengthen their long-term competitiveness. At the end of the month, the equity allocation was slightly lower than in the previous month at 24.8 %. In the bond sector, we participated in new issues from IBM, Linde and Johnson & Johnson. We sold bonds from Volkswagen, Toyota and Daimler Truck. The basic bond positioning remained virtually unchanged as a result of the transactions. At the end of the month, the bond ratio was 58.2 %, the duration and current yield were 4.9 % and 3.4 %, respectively. The weighted average rating of the bond portfolio remained unchanged at AA.

GENERAL SUSTAINABILITY APPROACH AT FLOSSBACH VON STORCH

Flossbach von Storch acts according to a comprehensive understanding of sustainability and integrates ESG (Environment, Social and Governance) factors firmly into its proprietary investment process. The in-house research department thoroughly examines the quality of each new investment idea on the basis of a fundamental company analysis. Only if a company generates returns in the long term and there are no serious ESG conflicts does an investment idea become a potential investment. In this context, particular importance is attached to long-term corporate governance (G) with integrity. It allows conclusions to be drawn about the observance of all ESG factors.

You can find more information on the topic of sustainability at:

OPPORTUNITIES

- + Flexible investment policy without benchmarking.
- + Risk is broadly diversified by investing in a range of asset classes (e.g. equities, bonds, convertible bonds, and precious metals [indirect]). Market potential can be exploited by investing across a wide range.
- + Investing in assets denominated in a foreign currency can have a positive impact on unit values as a result of exchange-rate movements.
- + Derivatives can be used to increase potential yields.
- + Precious metals [indirect] (e.g. in the form of gold) can be used to increase potential yields.

RISKS

- Market risks: the securities in which the Management Company invests the sub-fund assets present opportunities for gain but also the possibility of risk. The ESG criteria restrict the selection of target investments in terms of category and number, sometimes considerably. If a sub-fund invests directly or indirectly in securities and other assets, it is subject to many general trends and tendencies on the markets, which are sometimes attributable to irrational factors, particularly on the securities markets. Losses can occur when the market value of the assets decreases against the cost price. If a unit holder disposes of units in a sub-fund at a time when the quoted price of the sub-fund assets is less than at the time of investment, then the unit holder will not recover the full value of the investment. While each sub-fund constantly strives to achieve growth, growth cannot be guaranteed. The risk exposure of the investor is, however, limited to the sum invested. There is no obligation to make additional capital contributions beyond investors' investments.
- Currency risks: if a sub-fund holds assets which are denominated in foreign currencies, it shall be subject to currency risk. In the event of a devaluation of the foreign currency against the reference currency of the sub-fund, the value of the assets held in foreign currencies shall fall.
- Credit risks: the fund may invest part of its assets in bonds. The issuers of these bonds could become insolvent, causing the bonds to lose some or all of their value.
- Interest-change risks: investing in securities at a fixed rate of interest is connected with the possibility that the current interest rate at the time of issuance of a security could change. If the current interest rate increases as against the interest at the time of issue, fixed-rate securities will generally decrease in value. Conversely, if the current interest rate falls, fixed-rate securities will increase.
- Risks relating to the use of derivatives: the fund may enter into derivative transactions for the purposes listed in the key information document (PRIIP-KID) and the sales prospectus. This means increased opportunities, but also increased risk of losses. The use of derivatives to hedge against losses may also reduce the profit opportunities of the fund.
- Risks of precious metals and commodities: precious metals and commodities may be subject to greater price fluctuations. Trading prices may also fall.
