

Flossbach von Storch - Foundation Defensive - SI ³

INVESTMENT STRATEGY

The Flossbach von Storch - Foundation Defensive Sub-Fund offers professional asset management to foundations and other responsible investors. The defensive multi-asset strategy is designed to generate attractive returns while preserving the substance of the assets over the medium term. The fund management invests globally in equities (maximum 35 per cent), bonds, convertible bonds, currencies, gold (indirectly) and investment funds according to the principle of risk diversification. Derivatives may be used to hedge or optimise returns. The investment strategy includes in-house valuation models, ESG integration, engagement, and voting. In addition, exclusion criteria are taken into account that are based on a broad consensus of values. For example, the fund management refrains from investing in companies that are associated with the production and distribution of controversial weapons, or that generate significant revenues from military weapons, thermal coal, tobacco, alcohol and gambling. Also excluded are companies that seriously violate the principles of the UN Global Compact initiative these include human rights, labour standards, environmental protection, and anti-corruption. When selecting government bonds, no issuers are considered that are classified as "not free" by Freedom House. The Sub-Fund is actively managed and not benchmarked against an index. The sub-fund is categorized as an Article 8 product within the meaning of the Disclosure Regulation (EU) 2019/2088 (SFDR). For detailed information on the objectives and investment policy, please refer to the most recent sales prospectus and the Key Information Document (PRIIP-KID).

MONTHLY COMMENTARY

The month got off to a turbulent start with 'Liberation Day' and the tariffs on foreign goods announced by US President Donald Trump. After several days of sharp price losses, rising Treasury yields and a depreciation of the US dollar, the US president backtracked, at least in part, in the form of exemptions and concessions for certain trading partners and industries. These measures had the desired effect and calmed the markets. The yield on 10-year US Treasuries was virtually unchanged at 4.2% at the end of the month, while the US S&P 500 index, which had fallen by more than 10% at one point, ended April with only a slight loss of 0.7%. The US dollar, conversely, remained weak throughout the month, losing 4.5% against the euro. This weighed negatively on performance for investors in the eurozone. The MSCI World global equity index, in which US equities account for around 70%, recorded a loss of 4.1% (calculated in euros) in the month under review. Gold shone once again, gaining 5.3% (calculated in US dollars) and reaching a new all-time high of over USD 3,400 per troy ounce. From the perspective of a euro investor, however, not much of this remained. In this environment, the Fund price recorded a decline of -0.3 %. Losses on equities (in particular currency losses on US equities) were primarily responsible for the negative performance. Currency hedging transactions, which we concluded for some of the US dollar securities holdings, and gold (non-physical), conversely, made positive value contributions. In April, we completely divested our positions in Apple and Stryker. By contrast, we further increased our holdings in Novo Nordisk and IDEX after adding both companies to the portfolio in the previous month. At the end of the month, the equity allocation was lower at 23.8 %. Regarding bonds, we reduced our weighting in US Treasuries and further increased our holdings of European corporate and government bonds. At the end of the month, the bond allocation was 58.0 %, while the duration and current yield of the bond portfolio were 5.4 and 3.2%, respectively. The weighted average rating of the bond portfolio remained unchanged at AA.

GENERAL SUSTAINABILITY APPROACH AT FLOSSBACH VON STORCH

Flossbach von Storch acts according to a comprehensive understanding of sustainability and integrates ESG (Environment, Social and Governance) factors firmly into its proprietary investment process. The in-house research department thoroughly examines the quality of each new investment idea on the basis of a fundamental company analysis. Only if a company generates returns in the long term and there are no serious ESG conflicts does an investment idea become a potential investment. In this context, particular importance is attached to long-term corporate governance (G) with integrity. It allows conclusions to be drawn about the observance of all ESG factors.

You can find more information on the topic of sustainability at:

OPPORTUNITIES

- + Flexible investment policy without benchmarking.
- + Risk is broadly diversified by investing in a range of asset classes (e.g. equities, bonds, convertible bonds, and precious metals [indirect]). Market potential can be exploited by investing across a wide range.
- + Investing in assets denominated in a foreign currency can have a positive impact on unit values as a result of exchange-rate movements.
- + Derivatives can be used to increase potential yields.
- + Precious metals [indirect] (e.g. in the form of gold) can be used to increase potential yields.

RISKS

- Market risks: the securities in which the Management Company invests the sub-fund assets present opportunities for gain but also the possibility of risk. The ESG criteria restrict the selection of target investments in terms of category and number, sometimes considerably. If a sub-fund invests directly or indirectly in securities and other assets, it is subject to many general trends and tendencies on the markets, which are sometimes attributable to irrational factors, particularly on the securities markets. Losses can occur when the market value of the assets decreases against the cost price. If a unit holder disposes of units in a sub-fund at a time when the quoted price of the sub-fund assets is less than at the time of investment, then the unit holder will not recover the full value of the investment. While each sub-fund constantly strives to achieve growth, growth cannot be guaranteed. The risk exposure of the investor is, however, limited to the sum invested. There is no obligation to make additional capital contributions beyond investors' investments.
- Currency risks: if a sub-fund holds assets which are denominated in foreign currencies, it shall be subject to currency risk. In the event of a devaluation of the foreign currency against the reference currency of the sub-fund, the value of the assets held in foreign currencies shall fall.
- Credit risks: the fund may invest part of its assets in bonds. The issuers of these bonds could become insolvent, causing the bonds to lose some or all of their value.
- Interest-change risks: investing in securities at a fixed rate of interest is connected with the possibility that the current interest rate at the time of issuance of a security could change. If the current interest rate increases as against the interest at the time of issue, fixed-rate securities will generally decrease in value. Conversely, if the current interest rate falls, fixed-rate securities will increase.
- Risks relating to the use of derivatives: the fund may enter into derivative transactions for the purposes listed in the key information document (PRIIP-KID) and the sales prospectus. This means increased opportunities, but also increased risk of losses. The use of derivatives to hedge against losses may also reduce the profit opportunities of the fund.
- Risks of precious metals and commodities: precious metals and commodities may be subject to greater price fluctuations. Trading prices may also fall.
